

THE CITATION REVIEW PROCESS

California Vehicle Code Section 40500(d) prohibits any person (including the police) from altering, modifying, or destroying a citation before it is filed with the processing agency. Your citation can be dismissed by the Police only for issuing error or for good cause in the interest of justice. Failure to properly display a parking permit, unauthorized parking, parking unlawfully due to being late for an appointment, leaving a vehicle "just for a moment," lack of funds and similar appeals, are not considered a valid basis for dismissing a citation.

Effective 1 July 1993, citations are CIVIL VIOLATIONS and are no longer processed by the Criminal (Traffic) Courts. All appeals are reviewed ADMINISTRATIVELY except for the third level of appeal described below.
